

AFTERGLOW SKIING

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5ZCpEgbAQes>

Introduction:

An infinite moment, a single second of awe that can radiate across your entire life. A memory collected by your eyes, a quick snap, taken on an internal intangible negative. Light, it shapes our existence, it's that familiar warmth on our skin, and the architect of our most transcendent breathes, from the light expanse of day. Darkness waits to fall, silent, steady, relentless, a river that can't be stopped, but even in the darkest night a light waits for those, who hold on to see, from the ashes of the afterglow when our world gives way to the next...

Part One:

The stillness, the peace, the solitude a calm so deep you can hear the single feathers of snow laying down to rest, the line between ourselves and the space beyond, evaporating into nocturnal...

Part Two:

In that darkness, the essence of dreams, shaping the world around us, hues of warmth and sorrow, fear and joy, together a shifting vision beneath the stars, transforming the ordinary into the unimaginable...

Part Three:

Another revolution turn, out of every darkness comes light, ideas, creativity untold experience in the coming dawn. We are dissolved in light, mesmerized and lost in its dance. It's rays themselves a ceaseless wavelength of light and dark. Sparks and matter moving in seamless motion from the dawn of time into the depths of eternity, all the moments and memories blurring into one. Constant and silently moving into the light of speed squared...